I Love
YOU SO MUCH
I want
TO KILL
YOU

For Sajjou Shouko, there is one girl who's a total eyesore: her classmate Minami Akina. Her fluffy hair bothers her. Those eyes and those lips bother her. The way she can't get her off her mind bothers her. "If you won't be mine, then I'll just..."

In addition to the titular story where a couple battle each other to determine the limits of their feelings, also included is 'NicoChuu,' where a closeted honour student yearns for tough-acting sempai. In this, a heavy-weight class collection of serialised shorts.

ARE

A horizontal comic panel showing the reactions of the two girls from the previous panel. The girl on the left is on the left, looking slightly away with a neutral expression. The girl on the right is on the right, looking towards the left with a slightly annoyed or determined expression. There are some small, indistinct figures in the background.

Hey, I'm

I like, you

—That was the concept behind this manga: a love so intense it explodes into extreme lovers' quarrels. Every episode was a full-force lovers' quarrel paced like a comedy sketch, and I did this for half a year. It was incredibly fun, but I also don't know what got into me.

I WONDER,
IF I KISSED
HER, WOULD
IT TASTE LIKE CIGARETTES?

—That was the concept I wanted to do here, but high schoolers shouldn't smoke, right? And so this became a manga that followed the flirtations of innocent delinquents. I feel like I should have spent some more time on this, but this is it.
